

ballhead X

for gorillapod
FOCUS™

The portable yet sturdy JOBY Ballhead X for GorillaPod Focus supports 5kg (11.1lb) and allows you to easily and fluidly pan, tilt, and rotate your camera while still enjoying the versatility and reliable support of a GorillaPod on virtually any surface.

Built with the serious photographer in mind, the Ballhead X is lightweight and compact, yet still robust enough to support professional SLR cameras with substantial zoom lenses and serious camera rigs. It further extends the functionality of the GorillaPod Focus by allowing even more creative camera positioning, enabling you to capture great shots anywhere your travels take you! While it is optimised for use with the GorillaPod Focus, the Ballhead X can accommodate both 3/8" and 1/4" threads, allowing convenient compatibility with any tripod.

FEATURES

- Supports 5kg of equipment, cantilevered. Full 360-degree panning and 90-degree tilt allow you to position your camera equipment at virtually any angle and capture portrait or landscape shots with ease
- The incredibly lightweight, compact, and portable form factor makes it the ideal ballhead for the photographer on-the-go. Throw one in your backpack or gearbag to archive your next adventure.
- Completely compatible with any camera under 500g and nearly every standard stabilisation device
- Universal mounting plate stays connected to your camera and slides into the Ballhead X for easy setup and quick interchangeability; switch between cameras in an instant
- Precision-machined anodised aluminum construction delivers durability with smooth movement.
- Professional all-black finish minimises reflectivity when photographing reflective surfaces
- Adjustment knobs with durable TPE easily lock the Ballhead into place, securing it tightly
